*Leaping Bunny criteria applies to component ingredients that are intentionally added to formulations, and to components of fragrance or flavours declared on the ingredients list when it's not a legal requirement.

Regarding fragrances and flavours, if the INCI is parfum or aroma, this declaration applies solely at the trade named raw material level.

Regarding allergens within ingredients, if they are legally required to be listed on the product label, but are not intentionally added ingredients, they do not need to be included in this declaration. However, if the allergens are an intentionally added ingredient, then they must be included in this declaration.
